Your Gastric Reflux (PEG) Scan

Your doctor would like you to have a Nuclear Medicine Gastric Reflux scan and has arranged for you to visit our department. We would like your visit to be as pleasant as possible and hope this leaflet will answer some of the questions you may have

WHAT IS THE SCAN FOR?

The test is to look at how your stomach empties after a feed through your gastric tube. We do this by taking pictures with a special camera after adding a small amount of radioactivity to your feed.

IS THE SCAN SAFE?

Yes. We will make sure that the amount of radiation you receive is as small as possible. The radioactivity leaves the body very quickly and it will not make you feel sick or sleepy.

DO I NEED TO PREPARE FOR THE SCAN?

You will need to fast overnight and stop smoking (if this applies to you) from midnight prior to your test or at least six hours before your test.

Please bring a bottle of your usual feed with you (we will use a syringe to administer this through your feeding tube).

WHAT DOES THE SCAN INVOLVE?

Shortly after you arrive, you will be asked to lie on a bed with a special type of camera placed over and close to your abdomen. You will be given the feed using 50ml syringes – one at a time, up to 300ml of feed, depending on how much you can manage. The second syringe will contain a small amount of a radioactive liquid. It is harmless with no side effects. We will take some pictures for about an hour.

Occasionally we may need to take extra pictures (but no more feed) up to four hours later.

Once you have had the feed, if you need to go to the toilet, you will need to use our special patient toilet – please ask at reception for the door code. It's important that you sit down while using this toilet.

HOW LONG WILL WE BE AT THE HOSPITAL?

Please allow four and a half hours for your appointment (it will probably only take one hour).

IS THERE ANYTHING I SHOULD TELL THE STAFF BEFORE THE SCAN?

Would women please tell us if you are pregnant or if you think you may be pregnant. Also, please inform us if you are breast-feeding. Women between the ages of 12 and 55 will be asked to sign a form on the day of their test to confirm they are not pregnant.

Please tell the staff if you are planning to travel abroad within one week of your scan.

WHAT CAN I DO AFTER THE SCAN?

There are no restrictions on what you can do after the scan. You may drive a car, eat and drink normally and continue taking your tablets.

WHAT HAPPENS TO THE RESULTS OF THE SCAN?

We are not able to give you the results of the test on the day of your appointment. A report will go to the doctor who asked for the test. The doctor will arrange for you to get the results.
